

Cough Remedies for Animals

Aconite is a very good initial remedy for early stage of illness; there may be the odd sneeze from cats or a throaty cough from dogs. You can use it in conjunction with Ferrum phos for its affinity with the inflammatory process. At this stage, it also helps if you can dose with vitamin C, a pinch of powder twice daily in food for cats to a teaspoon of powder or 1000mg tablet for a large breed dog.

For later stages with a cough (in dogs) and sneeze/runny nose (in cats) consider Gelsemium, when the animal is droopy and lethargic, or Pulsatilla if the discharge is thick and bland and they seek company. Phosphorus if blood-flecked, Hepar sulph if irritable, with yellow green discharge or Bryonia for a painful cough, worse from moving but settles when resting.

Kennel cough can also be a problem. It is not a serious disease, just a mild croup-like cough for a few days. Occasionally, bronchitis and pneumonia may develop in very young or old dogs, but for most dogs, homoeopathic treatment is very effective.

The Kennel Cough 30c nosode itself can be given once or twice, and other useful remedies may be Aconite for the early stages for a rough, loud, barking (pardon the pun) cough, especially at night. Then later, other remedies might be Bryonia, Drosera or Ant tart.
